Transition Update

Provider Applications, Re-approvals, and Amendments

As shared in the previous Transition Update, the Bureau of Early Intervention (BEI) announced at the last Early Intervention Coordinating Council (EICC) meeting that the launch of the EI-Hub solution has been delayed. With the delay in the launch of the EI-Hub, the dates that were shared by BEI regarding provider applications, re-approvals, and amendments are also subsequently delayed. Providers should continue to submit applications, re-approval paperwork, and amendment requests to the Provider Approval Unit (PAU). An updated timeline will be communicated to stakeholders following the announcement of the new launch date.

Provider Claims Loader Testing

Provider claims loader testing gives billing providers the opportunity to test the submission of claims from their third-party systems/clearinghouses through the 837-file upload process. Testing of this functionality will be conducted in a phased approach with all agencies and providers who currently utilize third-party systems having an opportunity to test the process prior to the launch of the EI-Hub. In the coming weeks, Public Consulting Group (PCG) will be connecting with billing providers currently using third-party systems for billing and claiming. In order to participate in provider claims loader testing, users will need an active Health Commerce System (HCS) account. Any additional testing requirements will be shared by PCG.

At the launch of the EI-Hub, the 277 Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) file will replace the F-file and 835 file billing providers currently receive from NYEIS. Detailed information regarding 277 EDI filing is available for review on the Learning Management System (LMS). In addition, New York Early Intervention EI-Hub Companion Guides (837P and 999) are also available for review on the LMS. Companion guides explain the procedures necessary for billing providers to transmit EDI transactions. The guides provide detailed, technical instructions on the required data content for claims submissions and responses. Click the link below to view the companion guides on the LMS.
